

School Visits and Writing Workshops

Looking for a lively, learning experience for your school? Packed into a 30-40 minute engaging presentation, students learn how to spark their imagination (What if...?), write a poem or create mixed-media collage by seeing the original illustrations. Touching on the Six Traits, children decide what sounds better and explain why, after hearing the sloppy copy and the final edited version.

What Teachers Say

"My students were really excited to hear about the process of writing— how Elaine turns her ideas into a final polished book. She inspires students at all levels of writing to become future writers."

—Sofie Trujillo-Shrock,
2nd Grade Teacher

Ghost Over Boulder Creek

"Elaine Pease has written an excellent novel full of ghostly spirits of the past, filled with mystery and Cheyenne trails."

—Gordon Yellowman, Cheyenne Indian Chief

"When I received this manuscript I just couldn't put it down. It is stories like this that turn kids into readers."

—Cathy Morrison, Illustrator

Even Sharks Need Friends

"... Besides being a fun read, this book would be a good teaching tool. Facts could be pulled from the text and expanded upon with the students. For example, after Hammy pops teeth, new ones quickly grow in to replace them. The teacher material in the back was a bonus! What an addition this would be to a home school library!"

—Writer's Digest

I'll Never Leave

"...a splendidly delightful story of a little leaf and its desire to stay with the tree it considers home. A charming and original story, filled with colorful illustrations and hidden ladybugs children can count."

—Reviewer Choice, Midwest Book Review

Her latest book released in the Fall of 2010 captures Elaine's passion for western history. GHOST OVER BOULDER CREEK, a middle grade, history/mystery novel, brings it to life for young readers. When she researched her local Boulder newspaper's archives, she stumbled upon a real find. In 1867, the local sheriff and deputy reported seeing a ghost by Boulder Creek. The story tied in nicely with the timing of the Washita River Massacre and other important events and people.

Weaving fact and fiction, Elaine created a survivor from that massacre—half Cheyenne, half white boy, Run Through Fire.

"After Father taken away, the Cheyenne pushed from reservation to reservation. He would not know Tsitsistas in Oklahoma Territory on the Washita." He wanted to smile confidence but something caught his attention, something that swirled in the dusty sunbeam behind the two men. Was it his spirit guide? Was it a ghost? Then, it disappeared, with a sudden tent rattling breeze, and a moan that could have been the wind but still raised bumps on Run Through Fire's arms.

The sweet and vibrant I'LL NEVER LEAVE and the very funny EVEN SHARKS NEED FRIENDS.

One afternoon, Little Leaf was busy cleaning the air around her—taking in dirty air, using it to make sugar sap to feed the tree, then returning it as clean air.
